You can help us build a healthy future

The Walter and Eliza Hall Institute of Medical Research is home to more than 550 researchers who are working to find causes, treatments, vaccines and cures for diseases including cancer - particularly leukaemias, lymphomas, breast cancer, melanoma and colon cancer - type 1 diabetes, arthritis, coeliac disease, HIV, hepatitis and malaria.

Since the institute opened in 1915 it has been responsible for breakthrough science and pioneering therapies that have changed the face of disease and human health worldwide.

Support us as we pursue the next generation of life-changing discoveries.

Your donation will make a difference.

Some of our achievements include:

- ▶ development of the procedure still used today to produce influenza virus in sufficient quantities for flu vaccine;
- ▶ the treatment of autoimmunity with immunosuppressive drugs, which is still the gold standard; and
- ▶ the discovery of white blood cell regulating hormones. This discovery has benefited more than nine million cancer patients and revolutionised blood stem cell transplantation worldwide.

Support us as we pursue the next generation of life-changing discoveries.
